Women's shelter movement a legacy of CWL pioneers

via Grandin Media

In 1968, 28 organizations—women's groups, church groups and social activists—met to discuss the idea of a place for women fleeing violence to meet without fear. Ultimately, the Catholic Women's League in Edmonton, Alta., used the might of their organizational skills and sheer determination to start what would eventually become the one of the first emergency shelters in Canada., beginning in space offered in All Saints Anglican Cathedral (Diocese of Edmonton). ii. Justice re Racism

(1) This disease has a theological term: sin

"You don't have wear a white hood nor do you need to plant a burning cross on my front lawn to be racist," writes the Rev. Steve Green, priest in the Diocese of Huron. "You can simply mention that you are surprised that I am 'articulate' and never knew 'that a black priest would know what he's doing.' Those are two of the many encounters I have experienced as an Anglican priest." Copy/Paste the following web address:

(2) "Our own house is not in order": Bishops issue statement on confronting racism

"We repent of our complicity in the continuing structures of racism and oppression in our church and in our culture, for racism is not of Christ. It is sin." See attached document (English and French).

Fullness

God gives Godself. Sometimes we accept and are filled to the brim, and like buckets on a water wheel we overspill in Love to be filled once more and receive Godself afresh.

–Br. Keith Nelson

Silence

Silence represents the essential Mystery we call God. We can understand silence as the subtraction of all that is not God, until we're left with nothing we could offer a name for. This silence is God's ineffable Truth, numinous, and unspeakable.
